ON THE COVER:

Fast Fun at Fearington Village: August 6 th dawned warm and sultry, but with virtually no chance of rain, making it the perfect backdrop for another Bimmer Adventure in the Research Triangle Park area of North Carolina. The objective for the days adventure was a trip across the central part of the state, and around the Jordan Lake Reservoir, to arrive at a quaint shopping and dining site near Chapel Hill. Once again, we had the pleasure of being hosted by Sean Beach and Leith BMW as a rally point to get our “party” started.

In a sign of improving times, this was the first time since 2019 that the dealership was able to provide food for our merry group! Breakfast sandwiches and beverages from the local Panera made a fabulous addition to the dealer’s coffee and was another reminder of how much they have supported our club over the years.

Fast Cars & Fun Ride to Fearington Village

It may be illegal to have this much fun!

Sometimes things get a little slow in August with vacations drawing people off to exotic places or family events. Apparently, that didn't happen this year, given that we had a total of 22 Bimmers and 42 of the BMW faithful participate in the festivities. Humorously, there are exactly zero cars on the showroom floor now, another sign of the times, so we had plenty of room to stretch out, eat, and enjoy our drivers' meeting.

The day turned out to be a dining adventure in three parts: breakfast at the dealership, lunch at The Belted Goat in Fearington Village, and desert at Tony and Karen Vaca's house, which they graciously opened to all who wanted to partake. Further proof that this is really a dining club with a driving problem. The cars covered a wide spectrum today, including a pair of F87 M2's, a G80 M3, and E39 M5, a Z4 coupe (that happened to be sporting Toyota logos) and an array of X-vehicles.

2 TARHEEL CHAPTER FOOTNOTES

Drop tops, coupes, sedans and SUV's meant there was something for every life style! Once we'd fueled up at the dealership, it was time to hit the road. A short blast on the Interstate to help us break the surly bonds of urban Raleigh, and we were off to escape west into the farm country of western Wake and the whole of Chatham Counties. Jordan Lake is a massive man-made reservoir that provides for the water needs of the State Capital region, as well as providing a summer playground for swimmers and boaters alike.

While water sports weren't part of our plan for the day, the magic of the place is that there are epic roads all around the area that follow the rapidly changing contours of the land and were built by a Department of Transportation that clearly spent proper time laying out both apexes and proper camber on the turns. With speed limits nicely pinned on the higher side of normal, it meant that we could dabble with the loud pedal without worrying about having to experience unexpected opportunities to make contributions to the local community coffers. The route was somewhat complex, and some of the signage seems to need some remediation work, which meant that getting a bit lost was simply part of the adventure. And get lost we did! Multiple “blown” turns highlighted the value of the scavenger hunt format for our driving instructions, as perfected in the “COVID era”.

As soon as you get lost, if not before, simply plug in the next address on the list and, like magic, you are back on the route. You may see different things than the rest of the group, but that just makes for better story telling! As a case in point, even having laid out the route in the first place, my navi-guesser and I managed to spectacularly miss a turn and head off on a wild goose chase well off the original path. No matter, we simply selected a logical address further into the route instructions, punched it into the onboard computer, hit “go” on the Flux Capacitor, and we were back more or less on track.

It is pretty funny, however, when the leading car in the group actually gets to the finish line last. Having wired our lunch order in ahead of time to the able staff at the Belted Goat, we were able to park the Bimmers, kick some tires, tell some tales, and still have time for a leisurely walk over to the pickup window. The food was excellent, and we somehow were able to commandeer the whole of the third level of the building, save for a local couple, for our lunch. It turned out that the couple had been to Spartanburg to pick up a BMW of their own, however, so they were more than happy to join in the roundel-inspired fun.

This is just how we roll, apparently, picking up new folks wherever we go. After lunch, and some inspired power-shopping, it was time to grab our gear and sortie over to Karena nd Tony’s house, a grueling 5-minute ride away on tree lined country roads. Once there, we were greeted by a wide array of sculptured art and a very excited Pomeranian who had to meet with each new arrival with both vim and vigor. Once inside, we were presented with an array of delicious dessert items and some epicall-y good coffee. Pretty chill way to spend the middle part of an afternoon!

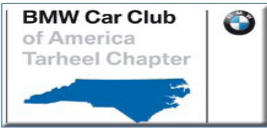

So, having successfully managed our way through three courses of dining, it was clearly time to think about heading for the “hanger”. Once again, great to see a large squadron of BMW’s light off (carefully) from a bucolic residential neighborhood and roll for home. That trip proved to be about as much fun as getting there, of course, since we now needed to traverse the north side of Jordan Lake. Life is truly Better in a Bimmer.

Hey, What Ya Got Cooking?

Italian Cuisine and Bimmers Galore

The Triangle Area's July dinner was a festive affair, once again hosted at our favorite restaurant in North Raleigh, the Farina Neighborhood Italian. Despite all the late era-pandemic issues, the staff at Farina outdid themselves in delivering another terrific culinary experience.

The trip to Raleigh was a bit more adventurous than normal, with a stunningly large thunderstorm punctuating the drive. Monsoon rains, brilliant flashes of light, and traffic lights that had temporarily "expired", turned the drive into an unexpectedly exciting adventure.

By the time we got to dinner, of course, the sun came out, the temperatures soared, and the humidity made everything "mostly moist". Perfect for us as the Bavarian faithful gathered for a Midsummers Night Dinner. We had a great turnout, with 14 BMW's and 24 hungry members ready to kick the tires and tell tales from the road.

We even managed to figure out how to make the TV in the dinning room work so we could run a continuous loop slide show with the ~600 pictures we've taken on adventure from Asheville, Southport, Smithfield and other places we've visited in the Old North State in 2022.

Once we tapped the wine, but before the dinner arrived, we had a chance to chat about upcoming events adventures planned, including trips to New Bern, Pinehurst, and Virginia International Raceway. We also had an opportunity to explore some new ideas for ventures to participate in '23, with a winery in Elizabethtown, a tour of Mount Airy (i.e., Andy Griffith's Mayberry), and a long weekend in Charlottesville (VA) topping the list of new places to "hit".

As always, we needed to celebrate something at the end of dinner. Normally it is a birthday that brings out the cannoli, but in this case we discovered that Pam and Rodney Wright were celebrating a significant wedding anniversary. That was good enough for us to sing about ... and for them to stop laughing long enough to jointly extinguish the candle!

All too soon after that, it was time to spool up the Bimmers and head for home. A great night was had by all. And we're now less that two weeks from gathering up again and heading out to Fearington Village and the Belted Goat Restaurant. We are, in fact, a dining club with a driving problem.

BMW Meets Art Deco

The Restoration of the Appalachian Theatre

In 1938 The Appalachian Theatre in Boone, NC was opened for business (apptheatre.org) in a community of 2500 residents, the new theatre was built to accommodate 998 patrons. Basically in two and one half days of running a film, everyone in the county could see the current running movie. If the theatre was built to hold 1000 people, a different tax would have come into effect so the style visionaries were also business savvy and planned accordingly.

In the last 84 years the Appalachian Theatre has seen a lot of history, a lot of changes, and a lot of wear and tear. The $10 million dollar renovation budget has been well spent and has now added a returning piece of history to the old historic part of downtown Boone, NC. Don't just think movies, which do run, but also music, drama, dance, and other events.

The mind tickler of an art deco building in the mountains of North Carolina makes one pause and ponder. But wait...what about the cars and is there a tie in here? Sometimes there is a combination of the BMW CCA, the cars, and more importantly the people in the club. Half of the people at the behind the scenes tour of the Appalachian Theatre that comprised our monthly meeting had connections with the theatre.

One club member Hank Thompson restored the vintage art deco lights that you see on the side walls of the theatre, since one light was unable to be located, Hank used his construction connections to have one manufactured in Atlanta.

Another member, who shall remain nameless attended the theatre in high school, on one such occasion on the way to the theatre he and some friends came across a possum, which they then put in a burlap bag, transported to the theatre and turned loose. Word has it that the possum became quite fond of popcorn.

Two other BMW CCA members attended college at <http://www.tarheelbmwcca.org>

ASU in Boone and used to frequent the movie theatre, this was their first event with our regional chapter and we were happy to have them and their beautiful new m3.

Some of the early BMWs do evoke some Art Deco styling and influences and certainly this theatre was a stretch for the mountains of North Carolina and the design that it evoked. A big thank you to Hank Thompson for arranging this tour and also to George Antczak for a great behind the scenes tour.

If your in the area check out apptheatre.org for what may be going on and for a true walk in the past, hope in your BMW and take a fun ride to the mountains and a piece of history.

HELP WANTED

BMW CCA Corral at Virginia International Raceway (VIR)

From the Desk of Paul & Brenda Dunlevy

For several years, we (Brenda & Paul Dunlevy) have organized and hosted the BMW CCA corral at Virginia International Raceway (VIR) for the running of the IMSA series of races. This has involved negotiating with VIR for the tent size and location, the meals and costs, and other organizational activities. We have also carried Tarheel's PA system our fans and generator and set it up as well as assorted flags, banners and etc. Another task we have undertaken to keep costs down for our attendees is to procure water, drinks, and snacks for our guests. These we have transported up to VIR and distributed as required throughout the event.

Unfortunately, experience takes its toll. With almost 160 years of experience between us, we can no longer handle some of the physical aspects of this enterprise and we need help. This would involve transporting the PA system, acquiring drinks, water and snacks and transporting them to VIR, and distributing and replenishing them during the event. We can still help with negotiating and organization.

We have asked our friends at the National Capital Chapter (NCC) for their help with these details but we have had no success thus far.

If you are interested in assuming some of the responsibilities of this event, please contact Paul Dunlevy (pauldunlevy@icloud.com) and/or Brenda Dunlevy (bedunlevy@icloud.com) for details or questions.
